Howdy, everyone!

Wow! What a week this has been!! And if I told you what happened, you'd think I had a, well, screw loose. And I probably do... So to get us started on this NEW Chapter – Fall arrived on or about September 22, autumnal equinox in the Northern Hemisphere – at last!! It's cool, and the leaves start falling and we get to roll in them, way fun!!!

AND on September 25th, 1789, it was THE DAY the US Congress adopted the Bill of Rights ensuring protections for individual liberties, including the freedom of speech and the press, the right to assembly and the right to exercise religion. In my humble opinion we were fortunate to have had men like James Madison (who primarily wrote the Bill of Rights) around at the time – as he was one of our founding fathers AND the 4th President of the United States (1809-17). Two things to celebrate in our little corner of Virginia and the 'ole USA!!! There are good things to have joy around!!!

What's next, well, when you browse, as we all know, there's so much out there, so I picked just one of all the goodies, the PERFECT Autumn Vibes Reading List for 2025 – “Perpetual Page-Turner” is the name of the blog and you can find it here <https://www.perpetualpageturner.com/fall-reading-list/>. Jamie also has a YA Horror Book list (I know you'll like them, my daughter was a real fan in her day). And Jamie also makes sure the list is full of books that feel like fall, books that perfectly match the season, heavy on the atmosphere, cozy, a little contemplative - so enjoy this NEW find for your reading pleasure for the autumn season and beyond.

One last thing to share from our Lancaster Community Library – a really great event - c'mon, everybody, let's have some real fun!! Your chance to shine – be serious or NOT...
